

NOW

Perfectly formed

Sculptural new designs from Asian group d.lab

The Design Incubation Centre, a research hub at the National University of Singapore known as 'd.lab', has produced 'Objects Around the Tablescape' – a brand-new range of first-rate homewares. Think futuristic lights, intriguing interactive ornaments and supremely functional stacking trays and plates. d.lab (0065 651 648 81; www.designincubationcentre.com)

From left Powder-coated steel 'A Family of Long Legged Lights' floor lamps, price on request; 'Idea of a Vase' set of ten blocks in a frame, available in teak or Corian, from £350, both d.lab

Glasgow Art Fair in the city's George Square, from March 27-30, with over 1,000 contemporary artists from 50 international galleries. Highlights include Marcus Egli's graphic laser prints on aluminium at Woolff Gallery (www.glasgowartfair.com)

Divine dining Cultures clash to decadent effect at Liverpool's hottest new bar and restaurant, Alma de Cuba. Set in a 200-year-old Polish Catholic church, it serves a Cuban-influenced menu and boasts a range of original features. After a day's exploration in Europe's Capital of Culture 2008, this is the place to recharge your batteries in style! St Peter's Church, Seel St, Liverpool L1 (www.alma-de-cuba.com)

WORDS: AMY BRADFORD